"I am a computer science Ph.D. scholar at NYCU. My university has given me an uncountable number of opportunities to explore, enhance and flourish my skills and competence in every aspect. My current research focuses on reinforcement learning applications in wireless communication. I am working hard to make something big and unique in my research career, and NYCU is helping all the STEM female students to bloom. I am fortunate to get the opportunity of being a part of this world-renowned educational hub. Keep shining NYCU!!!"
