Snapshots

MUHAMMAD SOFYAN HABIBI
Ph.D., International College of Semiconductor Technology
Indonesia

I earned my undergrad and master's degrees in High-Field Physics and Ultrafast Technology at the College of Science. Now pursuing a Ph.D. at ICST NYCU, I focus on RRAM in semiconductor technology. As an international student, NYCU has provided an enriching experience, fostering valuable connections and collaboration opportunities. I chose NYCU for its top-notch facilities, a result of Taiwan's substantial investment in education. Collaborations with industry leaders like TSMC, Micron, Foxconn, and MediaTek offer exceptional opportunities.

NYCU's emphasis on collaboration allows interaction with diverse backgrounds, fostering knowledge exchange. Studying at NYCU not only enhances academic knowledge but also broadens cultural understanding. The blend of academic excellence and cultural immersion makes NYCU an exceptional choice for international students seeking a unique educational journey.
