以下為英語幽默演講與會同學英文版即時報導：

English Version (by Link Lin)

We held the humorous speech contest tonight. Thank Rita Yu (a Spark TMC member) who had bought delicious muffins for us.

In the beginning, Chief Judge Cindy Wu, briefed the rules of the humorous speech contest and started the contest. The first speaker was Lindon Lin, who talked about how he dealt with fraud phones. The second speaker was Rebecca Chen, whose speech title was "Mah-jiang", but the thing she really wanted to tell us was the "enthusiasm" of college students. The most interesting part was when her friend rode while holding a desk in a strong wind. The strong wind blew the desk as a kite, so he almost flew. It was exaggerated and funny. The third speaker was Jack Chu, who introduced his dog, Lucky, and his cat, Cowboy, to us. Once Cowboy rode on Lucky, and when Jack ordered Lucky to sit but Lucky misunderstood it to shit. His story made us laugh a lot. The fourth speaker was Vic Liu. He used vivid vocal variety to describe different voices of animals, and he mentioned his up and down feelings when receiving his Mom's telephone. The fifth speaker was Nina. She showed us how she managed her life without her mother. Nina recognized the importance of her mother when she came across with some predicament. It was an interesting and warm story. The disappearance of an excellence and reliable mother, who was like a clock or guidance, made Nina wake up at 9:00 and get lost in a market. I think it can be filmed into movie. After the intermission, judges (Jim Clark, Anna Lowe and Chris Lowe) gave certificates and awards to contestants and winners. In addition, they gave some suggestions to every contestant. For example, "Repetition has a good effect." "The topic about pets is very attractive." "Remember to speak louder." "When you say something interesting, try not to laugh yourself."

Every one learned a lot from the contestants' performance and judges' comments! We deeply thank all of them.
