

未來十年最具潛力大學

“Rankings are looked by our respective students, our future students, our staff and our society, which conclude as to how successfully we are fulfilling our mission. Despite the visibility, it is my belief that we university leaders cannot be slaved by the rankings and their evolving methodologies; rather, we must have the confidence to do the best at our missions and hope the rankings successfully reflect our successes and failures. Noting each of our institutions, more than anything, universities going forward must place themselves at the epic center of society, guide the transformations that must occur to achieve a global sustainable future. I believe the alternative, for me, is not worth contemplating.” – Brian Schmidt, 2018 THE Academy World Summit
